“ I have been racking my brain for the right words, thoughts, prayers anything to make this life altering event make sense...

My brother,

The Lord chose for us to be related but we chose to be siblings. Christopher we didn't grow up together but the precious memories we did share I will treasure forever. The fights, the laughter... everything that made our bond stronger. I hope that you find peace in knowing that you will be desperately missed. I hope you find comfort in the fact that you leave people behind that will never forget you. My darling little brother I find solace in the fact that I know that you are now with the Lord and your soul is no longer wondering in torment. You will be in my prayers, thoughts, and in my soul with every waking moment. Love you always and forever.
