“ Two days have passed since we last said goodbye to our mom, the touch-stone center of our very large family. The family she created, loved, and cared for throughout her 90 years of life. We were also the center of her life. Now the time has come that we will have to live without her presence, and cherish the memories of her long life with us, and there are many.

You have been the focus of my life for so many years, I will have to adjust to a new after-hours routine, of not going to see you, and simply go home instead--which feels oddly selfish. I think I will get used to it... One day and one step at a time.

But I will always think about you with love, and I will never forget you.
