Well me dear tomorrow will be 7 years. I still think of you so often. I have tears in my eyes just writing this. When I think back about our time together I smile. We shared so many great laughs together. They were tough times for us but we just lit pachouli incense, cracked open a can of Miller Lite. Then the music would go on and the days and nights were not so bad anymore. You helped me so many times. I wish so much for just one last talk with you. You were always my biggest supporter in changing my life. Thank you Jackie for your wonderful letters of encouragement , that I still read. You always ended your letters with God Bless You. I want to tell everyone that God did Bless me through you. Your smile and eyes have never left my view. God has you my beautiful angel God Bless You Dear.

*Your forever girl,
Teresa Jo*

“ I've never known a time that I was unable to find a way to either let go or to forgive someone for something said or done or directed towards me. Until recently. Once I was enlightened as to the hurt you could never get over & how our friendship would forever be changed I have not been able to forget or forgive those responsible. And as time has passed, my anger and my resentment have grown. I can't seem to find a way to believe or see that it is of no value or consequence. Bcause your friendship I did value & the consequence so destructive, I may never be able to get over it either.

Loss during life still leaves a chance of hope. Loss in death takes all hope with it....

But I am thankful that you know you are special person in my heart and that I will always be a true friend no matter what.

Happy New Year!

I don't know if it ever will, but I DO know that you have touched so so so many of us with that smile of yours and you have healed so many of us with just that " look " you could give us that could help solve so many problems and the energy that you bring into every place you go...Many of us look up to you because you never change! You are Genuine and one of a kind and you have shown us who we should be! We Love you Jackie and no one will ever be able to take your place in any of our hearts! It was only a week ago that I stopped by to see her and she was in bed. That was the last time I ever saw her and kissed her. God how I miss her.
