“ Jerry was a young wonderful man that never saw color and never saw difference in people. Color, financial status, didn't matter. In other words he just liked us and some of us he loved because we were in class and helped each other. A man of Honor, I'm sure he always lived his life that way as he did in high school. A sweet young man who helped me when I fell in the hall, asked if I was ok, didn't make fun of me to let anyone else laugh at me you just helped me up. He exemplifies a Caring Heart. With a sweet smile he asked if I was ok, I have not forgotten the behavior of a non prejudiced non racial person of the 1960s. I was in hopes of seeing him at our class reunion next year and sharing this wonderful sweet man's Caring Heart for his classmates in front of all of us as we gather. So now I enter it in his visitor book as he waits to be greeted by God.
