“ I attended Texas Tech University in 1970 where Professor Dyer was my freshman design professor. She was also my textile design professor at Southwest Texas University in San Marcos, TX. I will always credit May Dyer for not only teaching me the elements of design but for teaching me the distinctive qualities of Great design. I went on to teach art in public schools and eventually became an exhibition director at the University of Texas at Tyler and the Director of the Martin Museum Art at Baylor University in Waco Texas. May's extraordinary teaching foundation would forever influence my art, my work, and my teaching. Thank you May! Rest in Peace 💕💕
