“ Uncle Sunny was known for his keen analysis of Dallas Cowboys football, or at least during Thanksgiving. I remember him talking about how "Aikman" had to be one of the best football names around. He was exceptionally funny--he seemed to live to get a laugh out of people.

“ Sonny was the greatest neighbor I had as a little girl. I remember all the kids in the neighborhood just waiting for Sonny and Barbara to pull up so we could sit outside with them and visit with them. He was always so funny and had the greatest stories to tell. I will always remember you Sonny you will always be smiling and laughing in my dreams. ”

“ Uncle Sunny could always make me laugh. I remember him being the piper at Sparky and Grandmother's house. He would time my brother Chad and I running up and down the hallway. We then all got scolded for being too rowdy. ”

Sunny was usually first to gather everyone around to pray when someone was in the hospital or in need. He pointed people to God, our source of comfort, healing, help, and eternal life through Jesus.
